FRECKLES

A Novel

Allegra Bird's arms are scattered with freckles, a gift from her beloved father. But despite her nickname, Freckles has never been able to join all the dots. So when a stranger tells her that everyone is the average of the five people they spend the most time with, it opens up something deep inside.

The trouble is, Freckles doesn't know if she has five people. And if not, what does that say about her? She's left her unconventional father and her friends behind for a bold new life in Dublin, but she's still an outsider. Now, in a quest to understand, she must find not one but five people who shape her - and who will determine her future.

Told in Allegra's vivid, original voice, moving from modern Dublin to the fierce Atlantic coast, this is an unforgettable story of human connection, of friendship, and of growing into your own skin.

THE WISH

A Novel

If you had one wish...

Maggie hasn't told this story in years. More than two decades ago, she fell in love. She was sixteen and far from home, waiting to give her baby up for adoption. Bryce showed Maggie how to take photographs and he didn't judge her for the way her belly swelled under her jumper. They had the perfect first kiss. Theirs was a once-in-a-lifetime kind of love.

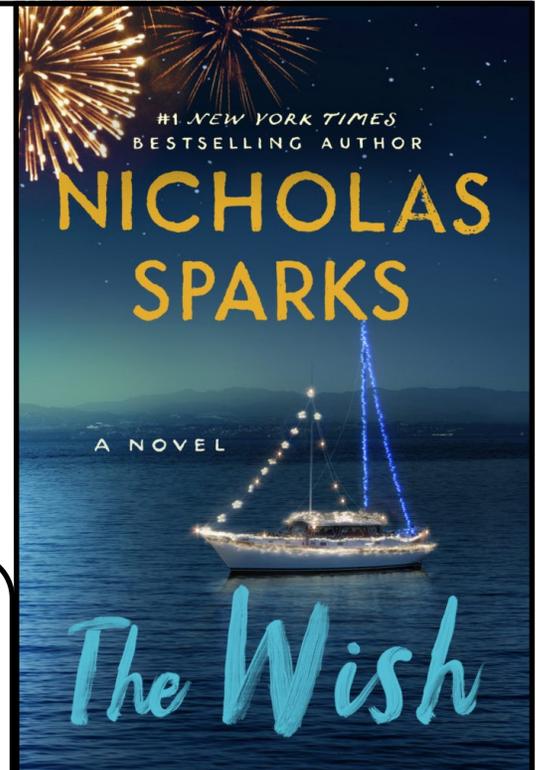

Now, as Maggie sits by the Christmas tree in her gallery telling her story, surrounded by the photographs that made her famous - the photographs Bryce never saw - her new gallery assistant asks her a question. If she had one wish, what would she wish for this Christmas?

Maggie always thought she knew the answer to that question. But before she can say 'I'd go back to that winter with Bryce', she stops herself. It is all she has ever wanted but suddenly here, on this dark night under the twinkling stars, there is something else she wants. She wants to find her baby.

A heart-wrenching story about discovery and loss, THE WISH is a reminder that time with those precious to us is the greatest gift of all.

“MALIBU RISING will be the sought-after book of the summer.” —Booklist, starred review ★

“There’s an impeccable sense of balance in Taylor Jenkins Reid’s Malibu Rising, a natural order in which every action meets its equal and opposite reaction. . . . Reid’s sense of pacing is sublime as she introduces and dispenses with a revolving door of characters to approximate the chaos of a rager where sloshed A-listers couple up in the closets and waiters pass trays of cocaine.” —The Washington Post

“Irresistible . . . High drama at the beach, starring four sexy, surfing siblings and their deadbeat, famous-crooner dad.” —People

“Think Selling Sunset with knobs on as Taylor Jenkins Reid again plunges us into the intoxicating, heat-heavy realm of intrigue of Malibu, this time amidst the world of the filthy rich.” —BBC News

“Completely slick and compelling, but also has such warmth and psychological insight. The characters were so real I almost found myself checking out their Wikipedia pages afterwards! It’s the perfect, literal, beach read, with the emotional depth of the ocean. # THANK YOU FOR LISTENING

Swan was a bright young actress with big dreams before a tragic accident changed everything, leaving her disfigured and disillusioned. Drowning in her shattered dreams, Swan found a life raft in audiobook narration. With her scarred face hidden behind a microphone, her voice transported her to the top of the business, earning her awards and acclaim. Still, none of that seems to make up for the life she lost - or the one she is losing, as she struggles to care for her beloved, ailing grandmother. When a lucrative opportunity arises to narrate a serialized novel from the biggest name in romance with the industry's hottest male voice, Swan can't afford to turn it down - but she isn't buying in. She's given up on romantic dreams and resents the books that promote them.

Nevertheless, a chance encounter with a charming stranger begins to draw her out of hiding. And when she and her audio co-star, under shared anonymity, start to forge a real connection, Swan begins to dream again. But just as she begins to open up, it all comes crashing down. As Swan finally grapples with the reality of her new life, she's forced to come to terms with the value of fantasy. Although unattainable, it can inspire us to embrace life just as it is...while always reaching for something more.

THE LIES THAT BIND

A Novel

It's 2 A.M. on a Saturday night in the spring of 2001, and twenty-eight-year-old Cecily Gardner sits alone in a dive bar in New York's East Village, questioning her life. As Cecily reaches for the phone to call her ex-boyfriend, she hears a guy on the barstool next to her say, "Don't do it—you'll regret it." Something tells her to listen, and over the next several hours—and shots of tequila—the two forge an unlikely connection. That should be it, they both decide the next morning, as Cecily reminds herself of the perils of a rebound relationship. Moreover, their timing couldn't be worse—Grant is preparing to quit his job and move overseas. Yet despite all their obstacles, they can't seem to say goodbye, and for the first time in her carefully constructed life, Cecily follows her heart instead of her head.

Then Grant disappears in the chaos of 9/11. Fearing the worst, Cecily spots his face on a missing-person poster, and realizes she is not the only one searching for him. Her investigative reporting instincts kick into action as she vows to discover the truth. But the questions pile up fast: How well did she really know Grant? Did he ever really love her? And is it possible to love a man who wasn't who he seemed to be? THE LIES THAT BIND is a mesmerizing and emotionally resonant exploration of the never-ending search for love and truth—in our relationships, our careers, and deep within our own hearts.

SIX WEEKS TO LIVE

A Novel

Jennifer Barnes never expected the shocking news she received at a routine doctor's appointment: she has a terminal brain tumor—and only six weeks left to live. While stunned by the diagnosis, the forty-eight-year-old mother decides to spend what little time she has left with her family—her adult triplets and twin grandsons—close by her side. But when she realizes she was possibly poisoned a year earlier, she's determined to discover who might have tried to get rid of her before she's gone for good.

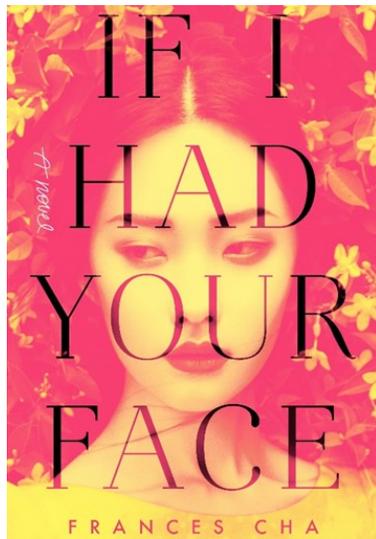

Separated from her husband and with a contentious divorce in progress, Jennifer focuses her suspicions on her soon-to-be ex. Meanwhile, her daughters are each processing the news differently. Calm medical student Emily is there for whatever Jennifer needs. Moody scientist Aline, who keeps her mother at arm's length, nonetheless agrees to help with the investigation. Even imprudent Miranda, who has recently had to move back home, is being unusually solicitous.

But with her daughters doubting her campaign against their father, Jennifer can't help but wonder if the poisoning is all in her head—or if there's someone else who wanted her dead.

A Novel

When twelve-year-old Yasmeen Khoury moves with her family to San Antonio, all she wants to do is fit in. But her classmates in Texas are nothing like her friends in the predominantly Arab neighborhood back in Detroit where she grew up. Almost immediately, Yasmeen feels like the odd girl out as she faces middle school mean girls and tries to make new friends. Then Yasmeen meets her neighbor, Ayelet Cohen, a first-generation Israeli American. The two girls gradually grow closer, and Yasmeen is grateful to know another daughter of immigrants who understands what it feels like when your parents' idea of home is half a world away.

But when Yasmeen's grandmother moves in after her home in the West Bank is destroyed, Yasmeen finds her family and Ayelet's suddenly at odds, forcing them both to grapple with how much closer the events of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict are than they've realized. As Yasmeen begins to develop her own understandings of home, heritage, and most importantly, herself, can the two girls learn there's more that brings them together than might tear them apart . . . and that peace begins with them?

A Novel

Navigating junior year, Michie is struggling to answer the question of who she is for her scholarship essays, the only chance she has at making it into Brown as a first-generation college student. Or maybe it's not so much that Michie doesn't know who she is as it is that she doesn't like who she is: having been estranged from her mother from the age of five and surrendered to her grandmother, Michie has made an art of hiding, especially from herself. After all, if her own mother doesn't think she's worthy of love, who will?

Then a new student—basketball superstar Derek de la Rosa—enrolls in her school and enlists Michie as a tutor to catch up in Spanish class, turning Michie's life upside down. Because, Derek? He is very cute, very talented, very popular, and very much has his eye on Michie, no matter how invisible she thinks she is.

When Michie's mother reaches out to make amends, and with her scholarship essay deadline looming, Michie will have to decide if she wants to reopen old wounds or close the door on her past once and for all. And as she spends more time with Derek, she will have to figure out how close she can risk getting to him, and how much of her heart she is willing to share. Because while Michie may not know who she is, she's starting to realize who she wants to become—if only she can take the chance: on Derek, on herself, and on her future.

DARK AND SHALLOW LIES

A Novel

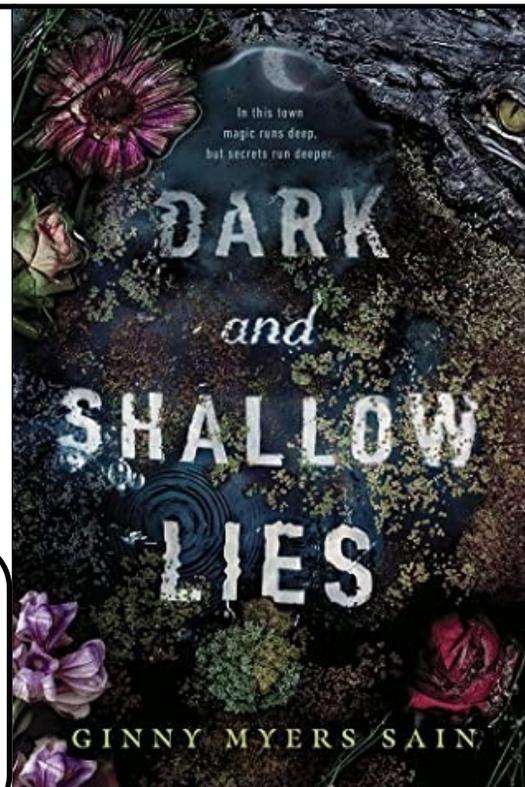

La Cchette, Louisiana, is the worst place to be if you have something to hide.

This tiny town, where seventeen-year-old Grey spends her summers, is the self-proclaimed Psychic Capital of the World—and the place where Elora Pellerin, Grey's best friend, disappeared six months earlier.

Grey can't believe that Elora vanished into thin air any more than she can believe that nobody in a town full of psychics knows what happened. But as she digs into the night that Elora went missing, she begins to realize that everybody in town is hiding something--her grandmother Honey; her childhood crush Hart; and even her late mother, whose secrets continue to call to Grey from beyond the grave.

When a mysterious stranger emerges from the bayou--a stormy-eyed boy with links to Elora and the town's bloody history--Grey realizes that La Cchette's past is far more present and dangerous than she'd ever understood. Suddenly, she doesn't know who she can trust. In a town where secrets lurk just below the surface, and where a murderer is on the loose, nobody can be presumed innocent--and La Cchette's DARK AND SHALLOW LIES may just rip the town apart.

Ginny Myers Sain lives in Tulsa, Oklahoma, and has spent the past twenty years working closely with teens as a director and acting instructor in a program designed for high school students seriously intent on pursuing a career in the professional theatre. # YOU BET YOUR HEART

Four years after her dad died, Sasha Johnson-Sun’s life is entirely different for her and her Korean immigrant mother: a smaller apartment, Saturdays spent cleaning classmates’ houses, her father’s photo on the bookshelf with other deceased relatives. Only Sasha’s top-of-class grades are the same, because if Sasha knows one thing, it’s this: she will graduate as the school’s valedictorian. After all, this is the dream her father had for her, and that her mother’s many sacrifices have made possible.

Now, two months before graduation, the title and the scholarship prize that comes with it are within grasp. That is, until the principal calls Sasha and her childhood best friend-turned-nemesis Ezra Davis-Goldberg into his office to deliver the second-worst news of Sasha’s life: they’re tied for valedictorian, a first in Skyline High history. And for some reason, Ezra—carefree, effortlessly gifted, uninterested-in-school Ezra—is as determined to win as Sasha is.

These things can’t be left to chance. Sasha and Ezra agree on a winner-takes-all, best-of-three bet, with the loser throwing their grade by failing to complete their final assignment. But as Sasha and Ezra go head-to-head in a series of academic challenges, they each are forced to reexamine not just what they want, but why... With everything hanging in the balance, Sasha can choose to ignore the tide of long-buried emotions that are rushing to the surface, honor her family, and win; or she can let go of the things she thought mattered and choose to believe that we are lovable and worthy because of who we are, not because of what we do. Decide wrong, and she will not just jeopardize her future, but also her shot at healing her heart and maybe, possibly, even finding true love.

THE SUN IS ALSO A STAR meets JUMANJI when two teens meet and fall in love during a layover-gone-wrong at the Atlanta airport in this thrilling new novel from the author of LET'S GET LOST!

Praise for previous book, WE DIDN'T ASK FOR THIS:

“Packed with quips and insights, the wry narrative captures the intense yearnings of young adulthood; the ridiculous spectrum of clueless, controlling, and (sometimes) cooperative adults; and the overwhelming inertia of institutions . . . A droll, engrossing exploration of privileged teens striving to do better.”

 —Publishers Weekly, starred review ★

BEFORE TAKEOFF

A Novel

James and Michelle find themselves in the Atlanta airport on a layover. They couldn't be more different, but seemingly interminable delays draw them both to a mysterious flashing green light—and each other.

Where James is passive, Michelle is anything but. And she quickly discovers that the flashing green light is actually... a button. Which she presses. Which may or may not unwittingly break the rules of the universe—at least as those rules apply to Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta.

Before they can figure up from down, strange, impossible things start happening: snowstorms form inside the B terminal; jungles sprout up in the C terminal; and earthquakes split the ground apart in between. And no matter how hard they try, it seems no one can find a way in or out of the airport. James and Michelle team up to find their families and either escape the airport, or put an end to its chaos--before it's too late

Adi Alsaid was born and raised in Mexico City, where he spilled hot sauce on things. Along with writing and traveling the world, Adi has coached high school and elementary school basketball. In addition to Mexico, he has lived in Tel Aviv, Las Vegas, Monterey and Chicago. BEFORE TAKEOFF is his sixth novel.

INDIVISIBLE

A Novel

Mateo Garcia and his younger sister, Sophie, have been taught to fear one word for as long as they can remember: deportation. Over the past few years, however, the fear that their undocumented immigrant parents could be sent back to Mexico has started to fade. Ma and Pa have been in the United States for so long, they have American-born children, and they're hard workers and good neighbors. When Mateo returns from school one day to find that his parents have been taken by ICE, he realizes that his family's worst nightmare has become a reality. With his parents' fate and his own future hanging in the balance, Mateo must figure out who he is and what he is capable of, and how he can protect his family. With questions of identity and belonging, Mateo's story is something anyone can relate to.

Daniel Aleman's INDIVISIBLE is a remarkable story—both powerful in its explorations of immigration in America and deeply intimate in its portrait of a teen boy driven by his fierce, protective love for his parents and his sister.

Daniel Aleman was born and raised in Mexico City; his family moved to the United States when he was a teenager, and Daniel now lives in Toronto, where he went to college. This story is partially inspired by the separation, difficulties, and ultimately, the great opportunities his family encountered since making the decision to immigrate to the U.S. and Canada.

SPICE ROAD

A Novel

Seventeen-year-old Imani's life and family fractured the day her older brother Atheer ventured into the desert and never returned. From an early age, Imani has looked up to Atheer, known for his charm, his courage, and eventually his mastery of tea magic. Now, a year has gone by, Atheer is presumed dead, and Imani has buried her grief under her duties as a member of The Shields—an elite guard charged with using their magical prowess to protect the Sahiran people from the beasts that threaten their border. Beyond the border is a vast sea of sand, and beyond that everyone knows there is nothing but a land laid to waste by monsters and madness.

Or at least that's what Imani always thought, until she finds a cache of Atheer's letters suggesting he's not only alive but also may have fled across the desert to a foreign land besieged by an invading army—a land that, according to Imani's many lessons growing up, doesn't exist. Has her brother committed treason, or is he right to want to use the Sahiran's magic to help an unknown—perhaps unreal—kingdom in need? And why would the Sahiran people's governing council hide the truth of what lies across the desert from its own people?

Now, Imani must venture across a land ridden with giants, ghouls and ravenous hyenas to find her brother, accompanied by two unlikely allies: Qayn, a roguish and handsome djinni, and Taha, her nemesis in The Shields whose talents are an obvious asset to her mission, even if his arrogance makes for difficult company. But time is running out: a war is brewing across the desert, and if Atheer reveals the location of the Sahiran people before Imani can safely retrieve him, the invading army could arrive at the Sahiran nation's doorstep in pursuit of land, power—and magic.

The New Science of Conversation

Based on Alison's over-enrolled course at the Harvard Business School and her decade of research at the juncture of conversation, behavioral science, economics, linguistics, and philosophy, LIGHT UP THE WORLD is a guide to making your conversations "light up the world." With a warm, humorously reflective, and prescriptive voice, Brooks is attuned to both the unique challenges of the present moment (burnt out from awkward Zoom chats, anyone?) and the timeless question of how to have more meaningful, joyous conversations with everyone in our communities.

Over the course of the book, readers will acquire deep insights into the dynamics of conversation and learn to solve a wide range of coordination problems with less rumination, more awareness and more joy. How should you handle a conversational pause? Is there such a thing as a good topic—or question? How to switch topics? Is it better to err on the side of boring or memorable? Prepare for conversations in advance or let them unfold organically? What is boomerasking? Should you venture a joke? Laugh? Mention the ex? Hint, hedge, or ask directly? How do you end a conversation? Why did your talk partner duck your question? Do you have to answer? And, ouf - did that conversation go as badly as you thought? (Here Alison offers a resounding No! Research shows that our talk partners, thankfully, like us significantly more than we think they do).

Bursting with surprising insights, tantalizing concepts, and endless energy and charm, LIGHT UP THE WORLD won't just equip you to navigate difficult conversations. It will equip you to light up the world, one conversation at a time.

ATTENTION SPAN

The Surprising Science of How We Focus, Why That’s Changing, and How Rhythm Became the New Flow

Since 1991, Dr. Gloria Mark has been researching the correlative decline in productivity, happiness, and attention span alongside the increasing integration of digital tools into our work and personal lives. But while the statistics frequently cited from her research in popular press look grim, she is far from a doomsday crier. Embracing the reality that most of us cannot retreat to a non-digital existence, Dr. Mark argues for a new conception of “focus” that works with our brain’s responses to constant demands on our attention, rather than against them.

In large part a response to Mihaly Csikszentmihalyi’s enormously popular 1990 book Flow, ATTENTION SPAN offers a new model for thinking about attention that makes sense for the digitally burnt-out, twenty-first century reader. Times have changed, and it is time to overturn the false, binaristic notion that we are either in a state of deep “focus” (good) or “distraction” (bad). Foregrounded by scientific analysis of how cognitive and emotional functions have been impacted by evolving technology, Dr. Mark proposes that we aim to develop our capacity for “kinetic attention”: a state that is dynamic, adaptive, and leads to greater fulfillment in our everyday lives.

Dr. Mark shows how we can develop this capacity by balancing the four states of attention identified through her many years of research. This book is packed with fascinating science and practical pointers for restructuring our digital habits, accomplishing more, and reclaiming control of our lives.

Dr. Gloria Mark is the Chancellor’s Professor of Informatics at the University of California, Irvine, visiting senior researcher at Microsoft Research, and a leading expert in the fields of attention, multitasking, and human-computer interaction. # THE ANATOMY OF ANXIETY

Rethinking the Body, Mind, and Healing of Anxiety

More than 40 million Americans suffer from anxiety in any given year, which has only worsened with the Covid-19 pandemic. To help patients cope with this often-debilitating mental health disorder, doctors tend to reach for the prescription pad, subscribing to the conventional wisdom that anxiety is “all in our heads.” Ellen Vora, MD contends that what we need is an all-encompassing approach that looks beyond the brain and considers the whole person.

Backed by the latest scientific research and Dr. Vora’s clinical work, THE ANATOMY OF ANXIETY offers a fresh, much-needed look at mental health, offering actionable strategies for managing our moods. Much of our anxiety begins in the physical body, often the result of seemingly innocuous states of imbalance, such as a blood sugar crash or sleep deprivation. This type of anxiety is far more preventable than we may realize, through straightforward adjustments to our diet and lifestyle, such as reducing caffeine intake, stabilizing blood sugar, prioritizing rest, and rethinking our relationship to technology.

Other forms of anxiety are not pathologic but come as a course correction to help nudge us back onto our paths. In this instance, anxiety is not what’s wrong with us, but it’s here to alert us to the fact that something else is out of balance—in our bodies, our lives, or in the world around us. This more intuitive version of anxiety, Dr. Vora suggests, is meant to be listened to and honored, and we can learn simple strategies for tuning into this anxiety and allowing it to protect and guide us. In THE ANATOMY OF ANXIETY, Dr. Vora walks beside us through a healing process to reframe our relationship with anxiety, and in turn create a more joyful and fulfilled life.

NASTY, BRUTISH, AND SHORT

A Philosopher's Field Notes on His Children

From a University of Michigan professor of law and philosophy, a delightfully funny and thought-provoking investigation into life's biggest questions with the help of fantastic philosophers old and new—including his two young children.

Like any new parent, Scott Hershovitz closely observed his two young sons, Rex and Hank. From the time they could talk, he noticed that they raised philosophical questions and were determined to answer them. Children find the world a puzzling place, so they try to puzzle it out. Often, that leads to profound insight. Sometimes, his kids recreated ancient arguments. Sometimes, they advanced novel views. Kids are natural philosophers, Hershovitz realized. Indeed, they are some of the best around.

With great humor and storytelling, Hershovitz follows an agenda set by Rex and Hank. To start, they try to make sense of morality, asking questions about rights, revenge, and authority. Then they try to make sense of themselves, inquiring into sex, gender, and race. Finally, they try to make sense of the world, exploring the nature of truth, the existence of God, and other daunting mysteries that most grown-ups have learned to look past. Through the lens of his sons' curiosity, Hershovitz takes us on an engaging tour through contemporary and classic philosophy. It's a fun romp through the field—the class you wish you took in college.

We want our children to think deeply about themselves, the world around them, and their place within it. Hershovitz calls on us to support kids in their philosophical adventures. But more than that, he challenges us to join them so that we can become better, more discerning thinkers and recapture some of the wonder kids have at the world.

Dr. Scott Hershovitz is Director of the Law and Ethics Program and professor of law and philosophy at the University of Michigan. He holds a B.A. in philosophy and politics from the University of Georgia; a J.D. from Yale Law School; and D.Phil. from the University of Oxford, where he was a Rhodes Scholar. Professor Hershovitz served as a law clerk for Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg of the U.S. Supreme Court and the Hon. William Fletcher of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. He has published influential articles on law and morality in leading scholarly journals, and he has lectured and taught widely at universities around the world.

From the host and producer of Think Again and Clever Creature podcasts comes a philosophical love letter to the slow, messy work of building a life and living with your dreams in the face of reality.

Advance praise for HUMANITY IS TRYING:

“A truly beautiful, wise, raw, subtle book. It glides effortlessly from thoughts about a moment in the author’s childhood to vast cosmic questions, and back again.”
—Robert McFarlane, author of UNDERLAND

“One part great grief, one part intellectual autobiography, one part spiritual growth, Humanity is Trying is that best of written strivings: a book the author had to write. Gots brings every ounce of his being to every page, with results that are riveting, edifying, and true.”
—Gish Jen, author of THE RESISTERS

“Jason Gots offers us an intimate look into his life with all the varied roads travelled to self-discovery. Humanity is Trying is a touching memoir woven through with stories of awkward early love, family relationships, deep abiding friendship and the pain when people are lost along the way.”
—Sharon Salzberg, author of LOVINGKINDNESS and REAL HAPPINESS

“I read this book in a single sitting and found it in many ways remarkable. It is a book that puts love right at the heart of religion, without any sentimentality. Gots’ relationship with his sister Meri and his friend John, I felt, were his route to the divine and to kenosis, the emptying of self. Instead of seeking salvation through belief in obscure doctrines and the quest for personal salvation, Gots found what we call the sacred in two remarkable but deeply human beings. In achieving this, I feel he grasped the essence of religious life.”
—Karen Armstrong, author of A HISTORY OF GOD

My sister and I are driving south toward Graceland in her beat-up red Saturn, both in need of refuge, both running from different things. Her bumper sticker reads “HUMANITY IS TRYING.” It’s a triple entendre, she explains: Humanity is exhausting. Humanity is struggle. Humanity is doing the best it knows how...

HUMANITY IS TRYING is several books in one. It’s a memoir about the love and the loss of a sister and a best friend. It’s the story of a series of escape attempts—cowardly, courageous, harmful, and hopeful—experiments in freedom from the stories that limit us. And it’s a record of spiritual, intellectual, and emotional growth with the help of friends, psychedelics, art, and spiritual practice.

From Jason Gots, creator of the podcasts Think Again and Clever Creature, comes a philosophical love letter to the slow, messy work of building a life and living with your dreams in the face of reality.

Jason Gots hosted and produced the podcast Think Again and created the new podcast Clever Creature. He is living proof of the Cheshire cat’s promise to Alice that if you keep going long enough in any direction, you’re bound to end up somewhere.

From an acclaimed environmental writer, a groundbreaking and provocative new vision for our relationships with—and responsibilities toward—the planet’s wild animals.

Praise for WILD SOULS:

“Fascinating . . . hands-on philosophy, put to test in the real world . . . Marris believes that our idea of wildness—our obsession with purity—is misguided. No animal remains untouched by human hands . . . the science isn’t the hard part. The real challenge is the ethics, the act of imagining our appropriate place in that world.”
—Outside Magazine

“An absorbing and nuanced blend of philosophy and science...Wild Souls questions the very concepts of wildness and nature. The result challenges readers to reconsider how they relate to nonhuman animals, from caged creatures to polar bears in the warming north.”
—Science News

“Marris’ engrossing examination of the human-animal connection is free of polemics and offers much to ponder.”—Booklist

“Where do wild animals fit in a human-dominated world? The answer, for better or worse, will be determined by humans. Emma Marris’s exploration of this question is at once thoughtful, thought-provoking, and thoroughly absorbing.”
—Elizabeth Kolbert, Pulitzer Prize-winning author of THE SIXTH EXTINCTION

“This is a deeply felt and deeply thought book, brimming with compassion and rue, that throws out revelations like a stream of arrows, each one aimed at the very heart of the matter.”
—Andrew Solomon, National Book Award-winning author of THE NOONDAY DEMON

WILD SOULS

Freedom and Flourishing in the Non-Human World

Protecting wild animals and preserving the environment are two ideals so seemingly compatible as to be almost inseparable. But in fact, between animal welfare and conservation science there exists a space of underexamined and unresolved tension: wildness itself. When is it right to capture or feed wild animals for the good of their species? How do we balance the rights of introduced species with those already established within an ecosystem? Can hunting be ecological? Are any animals truly wild on a planet that humans have so thoroughly changed? No clear guidelines exist to help us resolve such questions.

Transporting readers into the field with scientists tackling these profound challenges, Emma Marris tells the affecting and inspiring stories of animals around the globe—from Peruvian monkeys to Australian bilbies, rare Hawai’ian birds to majestic Oregon wolves. And she offers a companionable tour of the philosophical ideas that may steer our search for sustainability and justice in the non-human world. Revealing just how intertwined animal and human life really is, WILD SOULS will change the way you think about nature—and our place within it.

Emma Marris is an award-winning journalist based in Oregon. She writes for The Atlantic, The New York Times, National Geographic and Outside Magazine, among many others. Her work has appeared in the “Best America Science Writing 2016” and won an award from the National Association of Science Writers for an essay about wilderness in Orion. She is best known for her previous book, RAMBUNCTIOUS GARDEN (Bloomsbury, 2011) and subsequent TED Talk urging the importance of letting children experience the outdoors.

Inspired by Brown University's beloved course—The Entrepreneurial Process—Danny Warshay's SEE, SOLVE, SCALE is a proven and paradigm-shifting method to unlocking your inner entrepreneur...

SEE, SOLVE, SCALE

How Unconventional Thinkers Solve the World's Biggest Problems

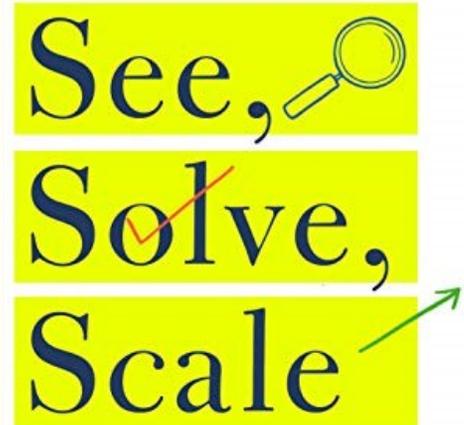

The Entrepreneurial Process—which has been recognized as Brown University's #1 highest-rated course—has empowered thousands of students to start their own ventures. You might assume these ventures started because the founders were born entrepreneurs. You might assume that these folks had technical or finance degrees, or worked at fancy consulting firms, or had some other specialized knowledge. Yet that isn't the case. Entrepreneurship is not a spirit or a gift. It is a process that anyone can learn, and that anyone can deploy to turn a problem into a solution with impact.

In SEE, SOLVE, SCALE, Danny Warshay, the creator of the Entrepreneurial Process course and founding Executive Director of Brown's Center for Entrepreneurship, shares the same set of tools with aspiring entrepreneurs around the world. He overturns the common misconception that entrepreneurship is a hard-wired trait or the sole province of high-flying MBAs, and provides a proven method to identify consequential problems and an accessible process anyone can learn, master, and apply to solve them.

Leveraging Warshay's own successful entrepreneurship successes and his 15 years of experience teaching liberal arts students, See, Solve, Scale debunks common myths about entrepreneurship and empowers everyone—especially those who other entrepreneurship books have ignored and left behind. Its lasting message: Anyone can take a world-changing idea from conception to breakthrough entrepreneurial success.

Danny Warshay holds an MBA from Harvard and a BA from Brown. In addition to teaching, he is the executive director of Brown's Nelson Center for Entrepreneurship, which hosts leading business leaders like Bank of America CEO Brian Moynihan and AWAY luggage founder Stephanie Korey (both on the board).

WRITING FOR BUSY PEOPLE

The Science

In the real world, practical communications must compete for busy readers' scarce attention and time. Succeeding in this competition means being read, understood, and acted upon. It requires more than writing well; it requires writing effectively. Effective writing in the real world must incorporate the laws of human attention, psychology, and time. This book will be a practical guide for writing so that busy people read and respond to our communications.

In WRITING FOR BUSY PEOPLE, these two behavioral scientists will also examine how it's hard to communicate with busy people and study the psychology of how people make decisions and process information and why these insights will work using six principles for effective practical writing:

1. Use fewer words
2. Lower the reading level
3. Use formatting judiciously
4. Make the purpose clear for skimmers
5. Emphasize value for readers
6. Make response as easy as possible

Dr. Todd Rogers is Professor of Public Policy at the Harvard Kennedy School of Government. He is a behavioral scientist who studies how to better communicate with families, students, consumers, employees, and voters. Todd is the co-founder of the Analyst Institute, which uses behavioral science to improve voter communications, and EveryDay Labs, which helps school districts reduce student absenteeism by communicating better with families. He is co-founder, equity holder, and currently Chief Scientist at Everyday Labs.

Jessica Lasky-Fink is a Ph.D. Candidate in Public Policy at the University of California, Berkeley. She is a behavioral scientist whose research focuses on improving the delivery of social services and programs, with a particular interest in connecting low-income populations to government programs. She is also a Senior Analyst at EveryDay Labs, where she leads evaluations of absenteeism communication programs, and an Associate Fellow with the Office of Evaluation Sciences where she supports federal government agencies in designing and implementing evidence-based policies. She also served as US Peace Corps Volunteer in Namibia.

WHAT DRIVES YOU

Discover Your Hidden Motives and Take Your Life from Good to Great

Kevin hosts “The Ziglar Show,” a top-ranked podcast on iTunes in the self-improvement, business, and career categories, as well as the “True Life” podcast. On average, Kevin gets 450K podcast downloads/month and 60K regular monthly listeners. Kevin has interviewed 150+ of the biggest names in personal development: Dave Ramsey (a family friend), Seth Godin, Simon Sinek, Lewis Howes, Guy Kawasaki, Michael Hyatt (who described Kevin as one of his all-time top interviews), and many more. Kevin just recorded his 820th episode.

How did Kevin’s podcast career take off in such a big way? When Kevin started “The Ziglar Show” in 2014, he was proudly self-employed and had launched several companies, but kept running his businesses into the ground. He could see that he was self-sabotaging, but wasn’t sure why. He wanted to do better for his family, but couldn’t see what he needed to change. Becoming his own chief student, Kevin sought authentic conversations about the wisdom he was seeking, asking the questions he himself needed to ask. The result was a blockbuster podcast for listeners wanting more from their careers, finances, health, relationships, and every aspect of their lives.

In his debut book, Kevin will draw on conversations from the podcast, as well as hard-won lessons from his own successes and failures, to offer a counterintuitive approach to a good life. WHAT DRIVES YOU begins with one deceptively simple, yet life-changing, question: What do you really want? Most of us think we know. But if we are stuck, we need to look closer for hidden motives that might be holding us back: “Shoulds,” based on the expectations of others; “Hidden Drivers,” based on unhealthy values (Kevin’s hidden driver was pride); and “Want to Wants,” based on authentic desires that we don’t yet believe we can accomplish. WHAT DRIVES YOU will show you how to identify and move past these underlying reasons that you’ve only gotten you so far, so you can step into your biggest, best, most truly fulfilled life.

Kevin Miller is a podcast host, business consultant, entrepreneur, and personal development expert. He has spent the past five years conducting indepth interviews with over 150 of today’s top world influencers to discern the root causes of personal change and behavioral psychology. As CEO of the Motive Network, he hosts The Ziglar Show podcast, a top 100 Business podcast globally, focused on personal and professional growth with over 47 million downloads, and 800 episodes. He serves the Ziglar company in a business development role.

EVERYDAY TRAUMA

Remapping the Brain's Response to Stress, Anxiety, and Painful Memories for a Better Life

Everyone experiences trauma. Whether a specific harrowing event or a series of stressful moments that culminate over time, trauma can echo and etch itself into our brain as we remember it again and again throughout our lives.

In EVERYDAY TRAUMA, neuroscientist Dr. Tracey Shors examines trauma with a focus on its pervasive nature—how it can happen at any time, through big or small events, and how it often reappears in the form of encoded memory. Her research reveals that when we are reminded of our trauma, reliving that tragic moment copies yet another memory of it in our brain, making it that much more difficult to forget. Dr. Shors also explores the neuroscience behind why women in particular are more vulnerable to stress and traumatic events, setting them up to be three times more likely than men to suffer PTSD.

With potential long-term consequences such as addiction, anxiety, depression, and PTSD, trauma can have a lasting impact on both the brain and body. Dr. Shors illuminates the effective tools that can reduce the repetitive thoughts that reinforce our traumas, including cognitive-based therapies and trauma-informed care such as her own groundbreaking program, a combination of mental and physical training called MAP Training.

By understanding how our brain responds to trauma and practicing proven techniques that can train our brains and help us let go of our tragic memories—whatever they may be—we are better equipped to leave our traumatic pasts behind and live in a brighter present.

Dr. Tracey Shors is a Distinguished Professor in the Department of Psychology and Center for Collaborative Neuroscience at Rutgers University. She previously spent six years at Princeton University as an assistant professor working on brain plasticity and sex differences in learning, and holds M.A. and PhD degrees from the University of Southern California, where she also did several years of post-doctoral laboratory work as a Research Associate in Neural, Informational, and Behavioral Sciences. MAP training has been featured on NBC Nightly News and in the New York Times, Psychology Today, The Washington Post, Huffington Post, and Shape magazine.

CLEAN(ISH)

Eat (Mostly) Clean, Live (Mainly) Clean, and Unlock Your Body's Natural Ability to Self-Clean

In Gin Stephens's New York Times bestseller FAST. FEAST. REPEAT., she showed you how to fast (completely) clean as part of an intermittent fasting lifestyle. Now, whether you're an intermittent faster or not, Gin shows you how to become clean(ish) where it counts: you'll learn how to shift your choices so you're not burdening your body with a bucket of chemicals, additives, and obesogens it wasn't designed to handle.

Instead of aiming for perfection (which is impossible) or changing everything at once (which is hard, and rarely leads to lasting results), you'll cut through the confusion, lose the fear, and embrace the freedom that comes from becoming clean(ish). As you learn how to lower your toxic load through small changes, smart swaps, and simple solutions, you'll evolve simply and naturally toward a clean(ish) lifestyle that works for your body and your life!

Gin Stephens, the New York Times bestselling author of FAST. FEAST. REPEAT. and DELAY, DON'T DENY, has been living the intermittent fasting (IF) lifestyle since 2014. Since then, she's lost over eighty pounds and launched her IF website, four online support groups, four self-published books, and two top-ranked podcasts—Intermittent Fasting Stories and The Intermittent Fasting Podcast. A graduate of the Institute of Integrative Nutrition's Health Coach Training Program (2019), she also earned a Doctor of Education degree in Gifted and Talented Education (2009), a Master's degree in Natural Sciences (1997), and a Bachelor's degree in Elementary Education (1990). She taught elementary school for twenty-eight years, and has worked with adult learners in a number of settings. She splits her time between Augusta, Georgia and Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, where she lives with her husband and their four cats. Gin is also a mother to two adult sons.

BE THE LOVE

Seven Ways to Unlock Your Heart and Manifest Happiness

Sarah went from living on welfare as a single mother to now running a successful million-dollar business. She is the host of the Journey to Manifesting Podcast, which has over 1.9 million downloads, and the founder of the Manifesting Academy, which has over 150K online students. She reaches over 350K subscribers with her email newsletter, and over 800K fans on her Facebook page, in addition to her dedicated Journey to Manifesting Facebook Group, which has over 55K members.

When Sarah partnered with Goalcast in 2019 to create a raw and inspiring video about her decision to leave her abusive relationship and her journey to rebuild herself emotionally, spiritually, and financially, she did not expect that it would reach 4 million views within a few hours of being posted. Today, the video has more than 55 million total views.

The video also underscored something important for Sarah about her audience: they are hungry for a more personal and intimate book from her, one that dives deep into self-worth, self-image, and the inner work it takes to achieve both financial and spiritual wealth.

The primary message of Sarah's Goalcast video was: "Be The Love You Believe You Deserve." That is also the message of this book, which include Sarah's seven most valuable lessons in self-worth, and contains simple but powerful advice such as such as how to overcome comparison traps and how to find freedom in forgiveness. It is illustrated by stories that range from humorous to harrowing, from Sarah's reaction the first time she discovered cellulite on her thighs, to the difficult realization that it was finally time to call the police when her ex-husband's violence went too far.

Inspirational speaker and emotional empowerment expert, Sarah Prout runs a successful spiritual lifestyle brand alongside her husband. Named a "Manifestation Guru" by Cosmopolitan Magazine, Sarah is an award-winning entrepreneur, podcast host, bestselling author, and mother of four.
